

Intersentia author received award

Harry M. Rhea received the 2013 Roslyn Muraskin Emerging Scholar Award

On 6 June 2013, Intersentia author Dr Harry M. Rhea was awarded the Roslyn Muraskin Emerging Scholar Award by the Northeastern Association of Criminal Justice Sciences. He received the award in recognition of outstanding scholarly contributions to the advancement of criminal justice within the first five years of his professional career.

Harry M. Rhea is Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice at Florida International University. He is a former United States Marine and holds a B.A. from Rutgers University, an M.S. from Saint Joseph's University, and a Ph.D. from the Irish Centre for Human Rights at the National University of Ireland, Galway. His research focuses specifically on United States foreign policy and international criminal justice.

Harry M. Rhea is the author of:

The United States and International Criminal Tribunals An Introduction

Harry M. Rhea

Supranational Criminal Law, volume 14

Sept. 2012 | ISBN 978-9-05095-954-4

xvi + 218 pp. | paperback

69 euro | 97 US dollar | 66 GB pound

Series price: 58.65 euro

82 US dollar | 56 GB pound

The relationship between the United States and international criminal tribunals dates back to at least the First World War. Currently, there are many anti-American criticisms throughout the international legal community concerning the foreign relations policies of the United States, in particular, its position on the International Criminal Court. Written by an emerging scholar in the field of international criminal justice, this book considers over 150 years of United States policies on international criminal tribunals and the prosecution of international crimes. Relying on archival research, Harry M. Rhea demonstrates how the United States has remained consistent in supporting all multinational and international criminal tribunals without supporting the International Criminal Court.

'Drawing upon archival sources that have not previously been studied by scholars, Dr. Rhea explores the complex and seemingly contradictory institutional member relationship of the United States and international justice. This is an important contribution to our emerging understanding of the subject.'

William Schabas, Professor of international law, Middlesex University and Professor of international criminal law and human rights, Leiden University

view the table of contents | order online | download order form

Subscribe

Your details are stored in Intersentia's database and will only be used by Intersentia for commercial and information purposes. They will not be passed on to third parties. You receive this newsletter because you have subscribed, or because you are a customer of Intersentia.

If you do not wish to receive this newsletter, please click Unsubscribe.

Intersentia
Groenstraat 31
2640 Mortsel
Belgium
Tel. +32 3 680 15 50
Fax + 32 3 658 71 21
mail@intersentia.be www.intersentia.com

Intersentia
Trinity House | Cambridge Business
Park
Cowley Road
Cambridge CB4 0WZ
United Kingdom
Tel +44 1223 39 3755
Fax +44 1223 39 3513
www.intersentia.co.uk